Death Toll Rises

The count of deaths since the partition vote in the United Nations last Saturday night rose to 37 Jews, 23 Arabs and two Armenians.

This week's death toll in the entire middle east stood at 110 and damage mounted into the millions of dollars.

Belated report yesterday from Aden, the British colony on the Arabian coast far to the south and east, told of a four-day reign of terror which cost 44 lives, 25 Arabs and 19 Jews. Three hundred British troops were flown in and brought the situation under control by imposing a 24-hour curfew.

Elsewhere, in Egypt and Syria, in Iraq and Lebanon, Arabs prayed to allah on their Sabbath yesterday for help in the fight against partition and cries for a "holy war" continued. Arab leaders in most of the cities which have been ripped by violent rioting during the week managed to curb their followers yesterday, but peaceful demonstrations continued at many points.

U. S. HALTS SHIPMENT OF ARMS TO STRIFE AREA

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—The United States has halted shipment of American arms to Palestine and neighboring countries "in view of the current disorders"—although officials said previous shipments there have been too small to amount to much.

The embargo, announced yesterday by the state department, applies to exports from this country, and also to war surplus goods located overseas.

Official records show that less than $8,000 worth of arms has been exported to the middle east from the United States the past 22 months.

The American League for a Free Palestine greeted the announcement with a statement which said the Arabs already have $37,000,000 worth of surplus U. S. property.

UPPER HOUSE VOTES DRASTIC FRENCH BILL

Act to Provide Stiff Penalties for Sabotage Now Goes to President.

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Dec. 6—After a tumultuous 21-hour session, the upper chamber of the French legislature approved Premier Robert Schuman's drastic new antistrike, anti-sabotage law today, 217 to 82.

The bill, which heavily increases the punishments for sabotage and sets up penalties for persons inciting strikes or keeping them going, was approved by the national assembly, the lower chamber, Thursday morning.

It now goes to President Vincent Auriol for signature and is expected to become effective today or tomorrow. The measure was demanded by the Schuman cabinet to guarantee non-strikers the right to work without interference, to suppress sabotage and to allow the state to use force in accomplishing these purposes.

The government announced in the assembly last night police had been empowered to use firearms in defending themselves against mobs, if necessary.

Vitual Anarchy

The three-week-long wave of strikes, violence and sabotage—reaching a virtual state of anarchy at a few points—already has cost more than a score of lives and uncounted millions of dollars in property damage and lost production. Thousands have been injured or arrested.

The government's decision to order police to defend themselves with their guns was announced in the national assembly last night by Interior Minister Jules Moch.

Even before this official disclosure of policy was made, police at Anzin, near Lille, dispersed a crowd of 4,500 strikers and demonstrators by bringing up armored cars. The crowd broke up at sight of the guns. Three strikers were killed by gunfire during rioting Thursday at Valence.

Regain Control

In the mining center of St. Etienne, where strikers appeared to have won control of the city for several hours yesterday, police said they again were in control, although seevral women were inalthough several women were inrested in a clash between members of a pro-Communist "Union of French Women" and the police.

ITALIAN GOVERNMENT GETS RED ULTIMATUM

By The Associated Press

ROME, Dec. 6—Communist-led Rome workers today gave the Italian government three days to accede to their demands for employment and for punishment of police who "fired on men, women and babies" in bloody disorders last night at the capital's gates.

The other half of the ultimatum —what will happen if the demands are not met in the three-day time limit—was not stated. Implied, however, was the threat of a general strike and labor turmoil in Rome.

The demands came from the newly organized workers' high command for the capital and Rome province, the existence of which was announced in today's leftist press along with its demands.

The new-born committee's first act was to publish a bitter communique denouncing police action in the slum suburb of Primevale yesterday, when a worker was killed in street fighting with police.

One workman died of a gun shot wound, several other demonstrators were injured, 10 police were hurt, one lieutenant seriously.

The demonstrators threw up paving stone barricades from behind which they shouted demands for the public works department to employ them.

The disorders at Primevale followed two days of labor unrest which began in the provincial "Castelli Romani" towns and gradually spread towards the capital.

DUROCHER TO BOSS DODGERS

Rickey Announces Return of Suspended Manager to Brooklyn Club.

By The Associated Press

BROOKLYN, Dec. 6 — Leo Durocher's 1947 contract as manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers in the National Baseball league was extended for one season today and Burt Shotton, who bossed the club last year when Durocher was suspended, was named supervisor of the club's 26 farm club managers.

The announcement ending the mystery regarding the Dodger manager was read by Branch Rickey Jr., at a press conference called by his father, president of the Dodgers.

Neither Rickey Sr., nor Durocher was present but Shotton, who took over the club last April when Durocher was suspended by Commissioner A. B. Chandler for conduct detrimental to baseball, was there.

"It is a nice old man's job," said Shotton, who was called from virtual retirement last spring and who now is 63. "I am going to check on the manager's of the farm clubs—all 26 of them. The club has been planning such a position for the last two or three years," he added.

Rickey Jr., said it was one of the most important jobs in the organization.

While no salary terms were announced, it was reported in the spring of 1947 that Durocher had signed for $50,000. The Dodgers never have announced whether he was paid while "sweating" out the ban in California.

Durocher, always a stormy petrel during his 20 years in the major leagues, was suspended April 9 by Commissioner Chandler for the entire 1947 season for "conduct detrimental to baseball."

The suspension was the direct result of hearings held in Sarasota and St. Petersburg, Fla., last March following charges brought by Larry MacPhail, former New York Yankee president, against

SECRET SERVICE CRACKS BIG COUNTERFEIT RING

VIRTUAL SPLIT OF GERMANY IS SEEN IN LONDON

Indefinite Division Between East and West Indicated at Big Four Parley.

By The United Press

LONDON, Dec. 6—The virtual partitioning of Germany between Russia and the western powers for an indefinite time was indicated today by developments in the foreign ministers council, which convened here two weeks ago to recreate German unity.

As the second week of the conference drew to a close, one more issue—German economic unity—was added to the list of those which have provoked basic disagreement between Russia on the one hand and France, Britain and the United States on the other.

The latest deadlock came yesterday when U. S. Secretary of State George C. Marshall challenged Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov to stop talking "generalities" about the German peace treaty and state precisely the conditions under which Russia would agree to unify Germany. The American secretary called for the elimination of Germany's zonal boundaries as a starter.

Molotov Fires Back

In response, Molotov launched into an attack on British and American policies in western Germany, accused the two powers of breaking the Potsdam agreement on reparations, said they were "actually hindering" economic recovery in the western zones and claimed there had been a contradiction between Marshall and Secretary of Commerce William Averell Harriman over the issue of unifying Germany.

The Soviet minister said Harriman had recommended in a recent report to President on the Marshall plan the creation of a separate regime in western Germany.

This, Molotov said, was contrary to Marshall's call for the unification of all Germany, and asked "who is right, the secretary of commerce, Mr. Harriman, or the secretary of state, Mr. Marshall?"

Marshall and British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin both counter-attacked as soon as Molotov finished. Bevin asserted that Molotov's arguments were designed to convince the Germans that they have but one friend—the Soviet union."

Cites Recovery Record

Marshall cited figures to show the extent of recovery in the merged British-American zones and once more appealed to the council to "leave generalities and engage in a discussion which may enable us to make some progress."

French Foreign Minister Georges Bidault also had a run-in with Molotov when he said in a paper on French economic proposals for Germany that France, as previously stated, wants a special regime over the Ruhr. Bidault did not specify the countries to be in the special regime and Molotov asked whether French policy which once wanted the Big Four in on such a regime had been changed.

Bidault retorted that he was in the habit of giving direct answers to questions even when asked by someone who was not in that

TURKEY DEAL PROVIDES TIP ON BOGUS BILLS

Thanksgiving Bird Paid for with Note from Hoard of Worthless Money.

By The United Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—Secret service agents announced today that they have broken up the nation's largest counterfeiting ring as result of a tip turned in by a distrustful farmer who was paid for a Thanksgiving turkey in bogus money.

Harry D. Anheier, chief of the secret service here, said the ring's members printed $600,000 in fake 5, 10 and 20-dollars bills and scattered them among "passers" across the country.

He said it was the largest counterfeiting plot since 1934, when "Count" Victor Lustig brought millions of dollars in counterfeit currency with him from Europe.

Five leaders of the gang have been arrested, he said.

The secret service released its announcement this morning after the fifth member of the gang, an ex-convict named Joe Moschiano, was arrested at his home on Chicago's West Side.

Moschiano, 42, who also goes by the alias Joe Moosh, was aroused by secret service agents at 4 a. m. They searched his home and found $350,000 in bogus bills stuffed between the walls in his garage.

Anheier said agents already had recovered $60,000 of the fake money when today's cache was found. He said about $200,000 more is still floating around the country in the hands of "passers" for the gang or innocent citizens who were duped into taking the bills as payment on merchandise.

Moschiano will be arraigned today before U. S. Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Other Arrests

Four men were arrested previously and arraigned before Walker yesterday. They pleaded innocent and the case was continued until Dec. 19 to give authorities time to piece together the details of the conspiracy.

Federal authorities said the gang arrested today were connected with alleged counterfeit money passers arrested last week in southern Illinois.

Four Chicagoans, including a 21-year-old woman, were arrested at Cairo, Ill., on Nov. 25, after they allegedly passed a bogus $20 bill to a gasoline station attendant. They were Albert Testa, Nick Vertucci, George Vertucci and Pauline Gartin.

Officials said the bills the four allegedly passed were made by the same plates as the money found in Moschiano's garage today.

It was believed that the four arrested at Cairo were merely "passers" and salesmen for the gang acting on a percentage basis for the alleged ringleaders whose arrests were announced today.

Those arraigned were Peter Klikas, 47, Minas Constantine Aretos, 43, Vito D'Agostino, 32, and John Brennan, 47. They were charged in warrants with conspiracy to make, possess and pass counterfeit money.

Klikas and Aretos, an ex-convict, already faced prosecution for alleged activity in the sugar black market. Klikas was held on $1,000 bond, D'Agostino on $2,000, Aretos on 3,000 and Brennan on $7,500.

Another member of the ring, George Kanakas, 32, was arrested earlier and already had been arraigned.

The name of the farmer who trapped them was withheld, the secret service said, because it was feared that others associated with the ring might seek revenge.

"Too Trusting"

The farmer, whose place is at Des Plaines, Ill., near Chicago, sold a turkey to a stranger a few days before Thanksgiving. He said he noticed that the stranger "didn't watch me when I weighed the bird."

"I figured there was something wrong with anybody that trusting," the farmer said, "and the fellow looked like a slicker, anyway."

He copied the man's license number and later he took the $20 bill the stranger had given him to the bank. The cashier said it was counterfeit, and the farmer notified the secret service.

The license number led secret service agents to the home of

CAMDEN FANS JOIN WALCOTT PROTEST

By The Associated Press

CAMDEN, N. J., Dec. 6 — Hometowners joined the Walcott family today in condemning Joe Louis' decision over Camden's Jersey Joe Walcott in last night's heavyweight title bout in Madison Square Garden.

"We all know Arnold won," said Walcott's wife as she bustled about her modest home. (The Arnold is Arnold Cream, Jr., which is Jersey Joe's real name.)

"Arnold was disappointed naturally," she said, "but he's sure he won. And he knows he can beat Louis again. It was just a lousy decision."

That sentiment was echoed throughout this south Jersey city of 100,000. Men gathered on street corners and in taprooms, commenting on what one man called the "great garden robbery."

Yule Trees Arrive In Marion Stores

The fir tree—traditional Christmas decoration—is beginning to appear in Marion's stores as a herald of Yuletide.

Already several stores are displaying southern firs and a few live trees, but the real Christmas tree spree won't come for a week or two.

First sign of the approaching holiday season came about two weeks ago when the Chamber of Commerce decorated downtown parking meters with evergreen limbs and strung holly across downtown streets.

Prices on Christmas trees are about the same as last year. About 5,000 trees are sold here each year, and grocers expect the sale to be about the same this season.

Most of the trees will be the long needle type from West Virginia; the rest will be short needle trees from this area and live trees.

ATOMIC PLANT STRIKE LOOMS

Oak Ridge Management and Union Seek To Avoid Tuesday Shutdown.

By The United Press

OAK RIDGE, Tenn., Dec. 6 — Union and management officials resumed emergency negotiations at the nation's huge, war-born atomic plant here today in an effort to head off a scheduled strike of 2,800 uranium separation workers that would tie up U. S. production of vital atomic energy.

Members of the gas, coke and chemical workers Union (CIO) were reported ready to walk off their jobs at the Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation gas diffusion plant here Tuesday unless company officials agreed to meet a 24-point union program.

A blanket 25-cents-an hour wage increase headed the list of union demands, which also included premium pay for off-hour shifts and improved holiday and overtime provisions.

Company officials were reported standing firm against the wage increase. But Carbide and Carbon official Clark Denter said management had prepared a "counter-proposal" which he thought would enable differences to be eliminated before the Tuesday strike deadline.

Secrecy Essential

Present day levels of the workers were classed by the federal atomic energy commission as "security information" which could not be published.

Center indicated that any wage increases granted would be passed on to the federal government which lets the contracts for work at the huge atomic plant.

The first major labor dispute at Oak Ridge's atomic plant involved one of the basic steps in atomic energy production — the breaking down of uranium isotope 235.

Union Financial Secretary W. H. Nelson said the plant could not

SMITH SEES G.O.P. FALLING FOR TRICK

Congressman Declares New Deal Sets Trap for Leaders.

Congressman Frederick C. [illegible] Republican of Marion during debate on the [illegible] bill, told the house Republican leaders may be [illegible] leading the party into [illegible] cleverly devised New Deal [illegible]

[illegible] goes back to the [illegible] bipartisan foreign policy [illegible] the Republican leaders [illegible] its very nature virtually [illegible] the party to the multi- [illegible] dollar lend-lease program [illegible] the Marshall plan—even [illegible] New Deal strategists re- [illegible]

"Both party leaderships are jit- [illegible] about the effect inflation will [illegible] their chances for getting [illegible] the government next [illegible]. Each is looking for [illegible] political trick to pull it [illegible]. It may well be that the New Deal crowd has beaten its opponent to the draw.

"The scheme is simple. New Deal [illegible] are whipping up with [illegible] might the worries being [illegible] by the people from ever- [illegible] prices. This is done to [illegible] them into supporting their [illegible] for restoring the OPA [illegible] all its evils.

Calls It Propaganda

"In addition they flood the country with propaganda that price and wage control, rationing, [illegible] are absolutely necessary to carry out the Marshall plan, that without such controls the further scarcity of goods which the plan would produce would drive domestic prices still higher.

"If I judge correctly the sentiment of the Republican members of congress, there is strong support for carrying out the plan of regimentation.

"There are a number of Republican members that will accede to all of the New Deal demands. A much greater number say 'some' controls have to be put back, which can mean only that all controls would in due time be restored. There can be no such thing as a half-way OPA.

"But here is the trick. Once the administration is given the controls sought, it will use them as sparingly as it can—at least until after the election—to keep the good will of the voters.

Sees Price Manipulation

"Meanwhile it will so manipulate foreign shipments and transactions under the so-called Marshall plan as to have the least amount of effect in further raising domestic prices.

"And be it not overlooked that the Marshall plan will provide it with a powerful weapon to effectuate that purpose. The New Deal high command hopes that this scheme will succeed in maintaining a high degree of prosperity without raising prices sufficiently to cause the voters to rebel. If it succeeds, the New Deal party will again proclaim itself Saviour of the country by virtue of the powers granted it to ration commodities, control prices and wages, and regiment the people in general.

"If the New Deal succeeds in putting the so-called Marshall plan through and having the wartime controls restored—both being integral parts of the same scheme—the end of what is left of the Republican party and the Republic may well be in sight.

LETTERS FROM OUR READERS

GIFT TO COMMUNITY

Editor of The Star: Our community has a very wonderful Christmas blessing every year—presentation of "The Messiah" by the Community Chorus. This year there are a hundred voices.

Its success is possible because of splendid leadership, as well as musicianship. Mr. Keller of Ohio Wesleyan university will direct. Mrs. Earl Hale is organizing and assisting. Miss Maye Evangeline Lawrence at the organ, and Miss Rosaline Manzo at the piano, are accompanying. Assisting at the organ is Mrs. Harry T. Williams and at the piano Mrs. Gerald Jennings. Norman Staiger will sing tenor and Elizabeth Pugh, soprano. Both are from Ohio State university. The String Ensemble is from Ohio Wesleyan university.

Handel's "The Messiah" typifies the peace which the world is so eager to embrace. The familiar words from the Bible are set to glorious music. "For unto us is born this day in the city of David a Saviour, which is Christ the Lord—Glory to Go in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men." It is a masterpiece of oratorio written by a composer who perfected opera. It has the jubilant, triumphant spirit, which lifts us all. Handel composed "The Messiah" in 23 days. In a spirit of exaltation, he closeted himself in his room. He afterwards said, "I did think I did see all Heaven before me, and the great God Himself."

The singing of "The Messiah" is a free gift to the community. In times past it has been given as a benefit for various worthy causes. Let us at this happy season attend its performance in the Epworth Methodist church on next Tuesday evening, Dec. 9.

International Stock Show To End Tonight

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Dec. 6—The 46th International Live Stock Exposition tonight ends an eight-day run which show officials described as "the most successful" of all Internationals.

Auction of the last of prize winning cattle, plus an afternoon and evening horseshow, was all that remained of the big Chicago farm display at the International amphitheater.

Judges from 19 states and England disposed of more than 12,500 animals—cattle, sheep and swine—during the eight day exposition. With the exception of breeding animals, most of the livestock was sold for prices far above the commercial markets.

An estimated 400,000 persons have witnessed the nation's top agricultural exhibit thus far, and another 50,000 were expected to visit the huge amphitheatre before the doors close tonight.

State Leases Land With Highest Point in Ohio

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6—Leasing of the 93-acre site in Logan county that includes the highest point in Ohio had the approval of the state conservation commission today.

The commission voted to accept a dollar-a-year lease for the property from the August Wagner estate for the next three years. Then the heir to the estate will come of age and plans to present the property to the conservation division for use as the August Wagner game refuge.

The division's plans provide for opening to the public the area immediately around the point 1,550 feet above sea level that is the highest in Ohio.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

"I THOUGHT the punky was conspicuous by his absence," Mary said, and I knew by her voice—and eyes—that she had worked off her anger at Georges, and was her old insouciant self again.

"Where did you immure him?" she went on. "I almost wish he'd been around. He's the only one who has adequate language to fit Georgy Porgy's case, but I'm glad he wasn't. After all, I couldn't have spilled that particular dish of beans to anybody else but you, all alone by ourselves."

"Thank you, darling," I said. "And I imagine it's just as well he wasn't here. His language probably would have cracked the window panes. He's in his own room. I asked him to take Faith over to Aunt Katharine, and then not to come back until I should call him."

"However did you get Faith away?" she asked curiously.

"I told her Aunt Katharine had a headache, and that I wanted her to go over and take care of her. She wailed that she didn't have a nurse's costume, but I said Aunt Katharine could fix one up for her, and she departed in ignorance and bliss. Your uncle will give Aunt Katharine the signal to play up, and I'll send him over for Faith as soon as it's plausible for the headache to be better."

"Make it soon!" Mary pleaded. "I could do with a large dose of Faith this morning. Oh, before you go to release Uncle Dicky, I want to ask you a question."

"A dozen, if you like," I told her, and was surprised at her hesitancy in answering.

"Do you think it would make any difference—in getting back my memory—if I passed up studying my lines for a day or two?"

I fancy my astonishment showed on my "tell-tale" face, for she suddenly laughed merrily.

"I don't wonder you're knocked for a loop," she said, "with all the tripe I've been broadcasting about studying my lines. Don't get me wrong! I'm still crazy to get at them, but I just can't put my mind on them while this question of reducing Georgy Porgy to hash is in front of me. And didn't Grandpa say that you would have time and seclusion for your play? Then why won't I have it for my lines?"

"You will," I assured her. "I have told you that before. Your step-mother-in-law has asked to engineer her daughter's wedding preparations, and—"

"When Olga engineers, they'd better clear the tracks in front of her," Mary said, "and everybody would better clear out of the locomotive cab. So that gives us a clear field. I'll bet we'll do more work in a day there than we will in five interrupted ones here."

I did not combat her sophistry with the reminder that there had been no interruptions to her study except Katharine's limitations on time, for I saw that until the final deflation of Georges should be accomplished, even the all-absorbing problem of getting her memory back was being pushed into the background.

"I agree with you there," I said, "but, as your mentor, also 'your best friend and keenest critic,' I must insist that you spend at least a quarter of an hour each day on your lines. Don't try to memorize any new lines. Just concentrate on repeating the old ones. In that way, you won't lose the advantage you already have gained, and you won't feel as if a pile of 'unfinished business' was hanging over your head. Then as soon as you've polished off Georges, we can get to work."

"Will we ever?" she said with emphasis.

"I'll get your uncle now," I said, rising, then, with a sudden flashing thought—of inspiration, I hoped—turned back to her.

"Dearest girl!" I said. "If it were possible to have Georges already deflated by the time I leave him to come back here, so that he'd be dodging you instead of trying to prove you still were interested in him, would that ease your mind any?"

"Ease my mind?" she repeated quickly, a shade too quickly, I feared. "It would save my sanity."

She was playing her role magnificently, but there had been a tell tale flash of disappointment in her eyes, gone almost as soon as it had appeared. I knew that secretly she had been longing for the chance to tell Georges off, and I threw her a bit of flotsam from the wreckage.

"You probably would have to see him for three or four minutes, sometime when I could manage the interview so Olina would never suspect you had seen him alone, but, if that were all, you wouldn't mind, would you?"

"No, I wouldn't mind," she said, then with a flash of her innate truthfulness, she gave me an impish grin.

"You know I'd eat it up," she said. "But, is it permitted to ask you to give out any great thoughts on your plan to pare Georges down to size?"

MAIL CANCELLATIONS SHOW BIG INCREASE

Postmaster Urges Public Cooperation During Yule Season.

Postmaster Homer D. Cole today requested public cooperation in handling the heavy Marion Christmas mailing load. He asked that people begin mailing their Christmas cards and packages at once, and that they space out the mailings over several days so that mail will arrive at the post office in a steady stream, instead of in huge bunches.

During normal periods, cancellations at the Marion postoffice average 18,000 pieces of mail a day. They are now averaging 21,000 a day, and during the peak of the Christmas season they reach 100,000 a day.

"Many people have their Christmas lists almost complete, but are delaying until they can fill in just a few missing addresses," the postmaster said. "It would help us a great deal if next week these people would mail all the cards and gifts they have ready or can get ready."

Full and correct addresses are essential, and use of zone numbers helps greatly in sorting the mail for delivery, he said.

The postmaster asked that all Christmas cards and packages for out-of-state delivery be in the mail by Dec. 10, and that local cards be mailed by Dec. 15 to insure delivery before Christmas.

Right up in the FOUR-FRONT
SCATTERED across this nation are some of the cagiest automobile buyers the world ever saw.
They cut their eyeteeth on a steering wheel, so to speak—they know car values from A to izzard—and you have to be plenty good to step ahead of your price class in the volume of your sales to them.
That's why it's startling—sometimes even to us—to see the double-barreled story of public preference that's written in the sales records and registration figures:
ITEM: Only three cars outsell Buick—and all of these are in the so-called "low-price field."
ITEM: In some localities—and quite often in polls that ask "Which car will you buy next?"—Buick ranks not fourth, but third, actually ahead of one of the lowest-priced three.
Naturally, the smart buyer will ask "How come?"
Well, the most standout style of the season, the style that's the clearest forecast of wonderful things to be, undoubtedly has much to do with it.
But that isn't all. The dollar is still a pretty important measuring stick.
So we don't think Buick could be where it is if it didn't offer a bigger dollar's worth—bigger in size and substance, in lift and life, in soft ride and easy handling, bigger in the all-round happiness you'll get out of your buy.
Which suggests, of course:
Why go against the solid judgment of your fellow men? Why not see your Buick dealer now—with or without a car to trade—and place the order that will put you where you belong, right up in the four-front?

Returning Galion Couple Report Economy Controlled Holland

Special to The Star

GALION—Happy to be back home after their first visit in 20 years to their native Holland, are Mr and Mrs. John Vossers of Galion. They arrived here Wednesday after a week's ocean trip

They left a cold, shivering Holland Nov 25, sailing from Rotterdam on the New Amsterdam and docked in New York City Tuesday For three months, they have visited brothers and sisters in Holland

While Holland is suffering from an acute housing and fuel shortage, the country is progressing far more rapidly than its neighbors, the Vossers report Two and three families share one house If one room is not occupied, the mayor of the town assigns occupants to it. About one ton of coal per year is allowed for each home This finds a large family group shutting off all but one room to huddle around one small stove. Churches and all public buildings are cold, too Consequently, the occupants must sit in bundled-up clothing Clothing in the country is rationed by the point system With only 80 points allowed per person, per year, it takes 60 of these for an overcoat and 20 for a dress

The Vossers, however, had plenty to eat while on their visit With a butcher in the family, and another brother who operates a vegetable and fruit business, their relatives shared with each other and were better off than some people

All food is rationed with the exception of fruit, vegetables and fish, and because the people have plenty of these foods they are not suffering from undernourishment Rationed eggs, three per person each month, sell for 30 cents each, the couple report During the war many people suffered from tuberculosis because of lack of essential food but there are few new cases being reported now

"Food costs are high, compared to a low wage scale for workers," Mr Vossers said "and because of this families must live from week to week" An emergency program is now in effect in the country, with the government setting wages, even a barber's rate Rent is controlled There are unions, Mr Vossers said, but not as bargaining agents Sometimes there is a small strike, but it is soon settled A common laborer is making about $35 to $40 per week and a carpenter gets $1 per hour

American cars, plenty of them, are in show rooms and on the highways, but only the wealthy can afford to buy them Mr Vossers pointed out Gasoline is not rationed, however

The couple found that all of their relatives had suffered some damage to their homes during the war, with several of them burned to the ground.

Mr and Mrs Vossers, who have sent their relatives clothing from time to time, were married in Holland on March 18, 1910 They came to the United States on their honeymoon and established their home here Since their marriage they made only one other trip back to Holland, that in 1927 They have six children and two grandchildren, and operate a celery and truck farm at the northwest edge of Galion near Heise park

Santa and the Good Boy

BY LUCILLE HUPPINS

CHAPTER THREE

Santa Hunts for a Good Child

SANTA CLAUS took off his red suit and shaved his whiskers and then, in disguise, went to the Land of Mizoo

He went to the capital of the land, thinking "It is a good country and a good capital and surely there will be many good children there I will have no trouble finding a boy or girl who will see Santa Land from Mr Sleek

First he went to a playground but there he saw several boys pouring fresh yellow paint down the slides and tying knots in the swing ropes so no one could possibly use them

Then he went in a school yard but there he found a group of girls making fun of a little girl whose dress was torn and who had no coat nor lunch nor even enough courage to defend herself

Dear me," thought Santa, "I am not looking in the right places Perhaps I had better go to the President and see if he can help me for I have very little time"

So he went to the President of Mizoo and said "My name is Nick Olas and I am wondering if there is a good boy or a good girl in all your wonderful country"

"All our children are good," replied the President primly "I will find the best children we have and you will see for yourself"

So the President called all the schools and the schools selected their best children and sped them to the President's office

"Here they are," said the President proudly "Talk to them and see how good they are"

SANTA was very happy to have found so many good children so quickly He went up to the first child—a girl with very wise eyes

Do you help your mother with her work?" asked Santa

"Of course," said the girl "I make my own bed and pick up my clothes and am careful with my toys"

"And do you get good marks at school?"

"Always A," said the girl "I know the answer to everything"

"Tell me, then," asked Santa gently "Is there a Santa Claus?"

The girl laughed knowingly

"OF COURSE THERE'S NO SANTA CLAUS THAT'S JUST A JOKE!"

"Of course not! That's just a joke!"

Santa shook his head sadly and went to the next child—a boy with a sharp nose

"Why were you chosen as a good boy?" asked Santa

"Because," explained the boy proudly "I work after school and on Saturdays and make lots and lots of money"

"What do you do with the money?" asked Santa.

"I buy my clothes And toys and ice cream sodas and go to the movies"

"And do you ever give any of your money away? Or buy someone else a toy or a soda or a movie?"

Certainly not," retorted the boy "I make the money and it is all for me"

SANTA went to the next child, a little girl with glittering eyes

"I am here," she said, "because I have such beautiful manners I never forget to say thank you and excuse me and please I always keep my voice low and I never grab things I am very polite with my playmates"

"And do you love your playmates?" asked Santa

"There are very few people worth loving," replied the girl "My mother says it is enough if I am polite"

Santa's sorrow grew and grew as he went down the line for every child was the same Each one was smart and diligent and polite and obedient but each had a heart of stone

When he had finished with the last one he turned to the President and said, "I am sorry but the one I am looking for is not here"

"How stupid you are!" cried President "In all the world you could find no better children than these!"

But Santa did not hear because he had already gone away

His heart was very heavy for he had begun to wonder if perhaps Mr Sleek was not right and there was no such thing as a good boy or girl in the world

"And if I do not find one within the next few hours" he thought miserably, "there will never be another Christmas"

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Acne a Plague to Teen-Age Youngsters

ADOLESCENT acne is the special plague of the teen-age youngster and, if the condition is severe, he should have medical attention In any case, he needs sympathetic advice Chiefly, he needs reassurance on two points First, he must be convinced that he is not the only one to suffer from this very common disorder and, secondly, that his troubles are likely to be temporary

During the maturing period the sweat and fat glands in the skin, which up to now have not been active, suddenly come to life Sometimes, during this period, they may be overstimulated and this is thought to be the root cause of the development of acne or pimples In addition, there may be the blackheads, whiteheads, oily skin, and dilated pores

The scalp, too, may be affected so that dandruff forms and the hair becomes oily and stringy If acne lasts for several years or occurs in severe form for several months, scars or depressions appear on the skin.

A blackhead is a plug of material in one of the sebaceous or fat glands The outer tip becomes black because of changes produced in it by the air Thus, a blackhead is not due to an accumulation of dirt, and no matter how frequently the face is washed the blackheads still will form

A whitehead forms in the same way However, the gland in which it forms has no opening to the outside hence, the material in whiteheads is not exposed to the air and does not become blackened When inflammation develops around the blackhead, a pimple forms As the inflammation continues, some of the tissues die and pus is formed

Because of the tendency to scarring, it is important that the treatment of acne be started promptly because, with treatment, the condition may be made much less severe, if not completely relieved

One part of the treatment is to get rid of the blackheads This is best done by a doctor In some cases, it may be necessary to make a small cut, using a slender, sharp knife, so that the blackhead may be easily and completely squeezed out Such a procedure causes no scarring, whereas, inexpert squeezing and bruising may well do so

X-ray treatments are helpful in many cases However, they must be given at the proper time and in the proper amount Ultraviolet ray treatments are also helpful.

The home care of the skin is important, too, in bringing about improvement. The child should wash his face at least twice a day, but he should make no attempt himself to squeeze blackheads or pimples

Frequent washing of the scalp and hair also important Such local preparations as may be helpful will be prescribed by the doctor.

Food, in itself, is not the cause of acne, insofar as is known at present On the other hand, certain foods paarticularly rich ones should be eaten sparingly, since they may tend to make the condition worse

Questions and Answers

S. V: Will you please tell me if heart murmur is serious! What can be done to keep from aggravating it?

Answer It is impossible to tell whether a heart murmur is serious without a careful study of the condition persent. Some heart murmurs may indicate that there is heart damage, others may be of no particular importance

If heart murmur indicates that there has been heart damage, the person's life should be so regulated as to avoid any physical or mental strain

teers among 50 Brooklyn Red Cross "Gray Ladies" who run parties, dances and a library service for 3,400 mentally ill at the hospital.

Similar work is being done by Red Cross chapters in Cleveland and Baltimore, and Dr. Julius Rubin, resident psychiatrist, believes these volunteer women have done much to help escort lost minds back from the realms of sick fancy.

"I WAS SCARED to death at first," Mrs. Dunsmore admitted as her partner thumped out a sprightly tune. "Until I learned they really were more afraid of me. They are pathetically grateful for what we do."

She said one of the songs most popular with the patients was "When I Grow Too Old to Dream."

Jolly Mrs. Skeer, a former actress, said she found the mental ward audience more fun than any she had entertained in the theater.

"It's more fun when you don't work for money," she laughed. "These kids are really a challenge. They keep you stirred up."

Three patients paid little attention to the music—a middle-aged red-haired woman with a melancholy expression; a dark-haired young girl who leaned against the wall, her face a mask of sullen fear, and a disdainful blonde sitting on her bed at the far end of the room.

"Watch them," whispered Dr. Rubin.

THE BLONDE, annoyed by the carefree singing, got up and flaunced around the corner, out of sight.

"The other girls don't like her," said the psychiatrist, "she thinks she is superior to them."

Slowly the dark-haired girl against the wall relaxed and stole step by step toward the group, her pinched face losing its fear.

"She was one of our most violent patients," said Dr. Rubin. "The music calms her. It is a kind of focus to draw her back to reality."

The piano began banging out "Hunky, Dinky Parley Voo," and the depressed red-haired woman suddenly lifted her head like an old firehouse smelling smoke. The song reached back to her youth and in a moment she was lustily singing:

"Oh, Mademoiselle from Armentieres. Parley voo . . ."

THEN SHE GRABBED hands with a young black-haired girl, and they swung into a jitterbug dance.

As I turned to leave, Dr. Rubin remarked cheerfully:

"Most of the girls around the piano will be able to go home soon."

And as he unlocked the door he glanced back at the sad, mad singing sorority, and said gently:

"But most of them will be back here again."

118TH POLIO CASE

COLUMBUS, Dec. 6 — Number of polio cases in Franklin county in 1947 was brought to 118 yesterday with the admission of Jack Van Dyke, three-year-old victim, to Children's hospital for treatment.

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

A FEDERAL grand jury has indicted ten Hollywood movie writers, directors and producers.

The house un-American activities committee hooked them on a contempt of congress charge for refusing to say whether they are or have been Communists.

What is an indictment? And what is a grand jury? Here's an explanation:

There are two kinds of jury: A grand jury, made up of 23 men or women, and a petit jury, made up of 12 men or women.

The grand jury's job is to decide by a vote whether an accused person should stand trial for an alleged crime. That's done secretly.

The petit jury, after hearing the case tried in court, decides whether an accused person is guilty or not.

A person appearing before a grand jury may be accused of a felony or a misdemeanor.

If it's a felony and he's convicted he can be sentenced to one or more years in jail. If it's a misdemeanor, the penalty is from one month to one year in jail.

The ten Hollywood writers are accused of a misdemeanor.

Whether on a grand or petit jury, federal jurors receive $4 a day for every day they work. In both cases, they serve three to 18 months. They are chosen this way:

A judge—in the District of Columbia or any one of 93 other federal districts—appoints three jury commissioners. They pick names from the city directory or some other list.

FROM THESE NAMES, the judge picks 23 persons as a grand jury. From the remainder the petit jury of 12 is chosen.

Then the grand jury meets. A U. S. attorney brings before it a number of witnesses to testify about the case of a defendant.

The defendant can testify if he wants, but he doesn't have to. If he does, what he says can be held against him at a later trial.

After hearing the evidence, a grand jury votes on whether the accused person should stand trial before a petit jury or should not be tried at all.

If the grand jury decides he should stand trial, that's an indictment. Then he is tried by a petit jury.

All that is done because the Constitution says a man accused of a major federal crime should first be examined by a grand jury. Why?

BECAUSE IT GIVES the defendant a chance to present his case before being tried, and maybe avoid a trial completely.

(Every state in the union has a grand jury of its own, or grand juries for each county, to consider crimes which violate state laws but not federal laws).

The government has loosened up the restrictions it has had on grand jury activities.

In the old days nothing that happened in a grand jury room could be reported.

But now any witness who appears before a grand jury can tell newsmen later exactly what he said and why.

In short, the only secrecy that a grand jury has now is the secret of how the jurors voted for or against an indictment.

SATURDAY, DECEMBER 6, 1947

Dec. 7, 1947

THE Pearl Harbor anniversary finds the nation still in the throes of a war hangover. Our military budget is $11,000,000, 11 times what it was in 1938, yet all three services assert they don't have nearly enough. We have the atom bomb, but it has given us no sense of security. Fear permeates the talk in congress and much that appears in the public prints.

There was no such feeling during or after World War I. This fear was absent during the last war; no one even mentioned possible defeat.

Being a filtrable virus, fear can't be studied under a microscope, but it can be analyzed. Our cause of the shakes centers around fear of Russia, fear of communism, fear of fifth columnists overthrowing the government by force. The rancor of Russia's spokesmen, their intransigence at the conference table, has unnerved and disillusioned us, and sent glimmering the hopes of the brave new world seen dimly through the haze at San Francisco in 1945.

When the extended hand of friendship is spurned, the reaction is to withdraw it quickly and double it into a fist. Internally we are tempted to meet totalitarian threats with a little totalitarianism of our own. The word "Communist" has been bandied about, and some are in danger of forgetting that the common sense of a well-informed public is the best weapon a nation of free men has against a crackpot minority which would sabotage it from within.

Six years ago we entered upon as grim and formidable a task as ever faced the American people. No one spoke of fear. Today the foe is nebulous but certainly not more formidable. This is no occasion for quaking in our boots.

Victory Model Santas

THE Volunteers of America, who at this season supply Santa Clauses for stores in some of the larger cities, report only an inferior grade of Santas available this year.

There is difficulty finding men who will lend an attentive ear to children. To many applicants are surly or have a preoccupied look. For another thing, the best Santa Clause whiskers, which are made from billygoat beards, are in short supply because of a dearth of goats. Cotton beards just don't stand the gaff in wet weather.

So if you see a gaunt, wizened Santa with straggly whiskers scowling at his young visitors, please be patient. While every effort is being made to relieve the shortage, we must get along with the victory model Santa at least for the present.

The Molly Maguires

WITH the Reading Railroad Co. opening its old records for inspection, labor historians will have a new insight into the Molly Maguires, a band of terrorists active in eastern Pennsylvania in the 1870's. The Molly Maguires, so called because many were Irishmen who went on forays dressed as women, were but one of the picturesquely named organizations, political and secret, which enlivened the American scene in the 19th century.

There were the Wobblies, whose influence was felt into the 20th century. There were the Barnburners, the Locofocos, the Hunkers and the Know Nothings. They were names given in derision but sometimes borne with pride. Colorful organization names were a phenomenon of the 19th century which have gone the way of Nast cartoons and torchlight parades.

Lo, the Poor Navajo

RECENT news pictures and stories of the plight of the Navajo Indians in the west came as a shock to most Americans who thought such squalor was confined to the grimmer slums of Europe. The President has taken cognizance of their plight by calling on the government "to meet the obligation of our democracy to them."

Although 12 New Mexico cities are furnishing interim aid of a sort, the welfare of our Indian population is a national responsibility. While we are doling out hundreds of millions for Europe and pressure is being brought to toss $60,000,000 into the Chinese maelstrom, the Indian population is being treated like a poor relation. There are 61,000 Navajos living on land which won't support more than 35,000 at a minimum living standard.

With few exceptions, Indians haven't taken to the white man's way of life. As descendants of the chiefs who signed treaties to last "as long as the grass grows and the rivers flow," they deserve a better fate. The government, which was a party to those treaties, should see that they get it.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

5,900,000 on the Public Payroll.

THE war is over. There is no depression. There is no need for made work or for sharing the work. There is a shortage of labor in many industries. More boys and girls are in college than at any time in American history. Yet the public payroll continues to increase. Federal, state and municipal employment, as recorded in October, 1947, but giving April, 1947, figures, has reached the high total of 5,900,000 persons and a payroll of $1,100,000,000. What do they all do?

In April, 1940, the federal government gave employment to 995,600 civilians; in April, 1947, that category reached 2,215,000. The state and local governments in April, 1947, show 3,682,000 employes.

SOKOLSKY

Go into any government office and see the featherbedding, the slipshod work. Many of the old-timers resent the newcomers who land a job and hold it down, doing as little as possible and serving the public without interest or concern. I have been told that in some government services many of the newcomers are nuisances, actually getting in the way and slowing up the jobs which the old-timers clean up after them. Many of these gentry must believe that they are not expected to work; they are expected to vote.

New York Strange Setup

Here in New York, we have a curious situation: the department of welfare is under numerous investigations because there is obvious inefficiency, possible corruption and positive abuse of authority. The jobs are mostly civil service and the remaining old-timers tell of the utilization of public funds for propaganda purposes. Never in the worst days of Tammany Hall was anything so foul.

The set-up is like this: the law requires the department of welfare to employ specific types of social workers, sociologists and others trained in particular schools. The civil service commission prepares examinations, in accordance with the law, which only such persons can pass. Although for all practical purposes, lawyers and accountants could serve more efficiently, the jobs go to these social workers.

They're Organized

They have organized a union. It so happens that it is a Communist-dominated union. All grades of employes belong to the same union. Those who supervise belong to the same union as those who are supervised. Those who give the examinations for promotions belong to the same union as those who seek promotion. Those who decline to join the union or do not go along with its bosses do not get promoted. In a word, a Communist-dominated union runs the department. Until the investigations started, the public official in charge, the commissioner, was not the master of his job; he was a sort of negotiator with the union for consent. In fact, the evidence so far shows that the union was in full charge.

How true this is of other government departments, federal, state and municipal, I do not know. Whether such control exists even in the state department, the treasury, and other confidential agencies of government, I do not know. It is interesting that the state department fires employes for reasons of security, giving no names, and after prolonged negotiation and consideration, permits them to resign without prejudice—still giving no names. It is now reported that these nameless persons, once declared security risks, have now been reemployed in government agencies. Who arranged that and how?

While congress is doing all this probing, they might do into this question, too. They might investigate the National Federation of Post Office Clerks, the American Federation of Government Employees, the National Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, the Office Employees International Union, the National Association of Post Office and Mail Handlers, the National Association of Postal Supervisors, the Railway Mail Association, the American Federation of Teachers, the United Public Workers of America (a merger of the State, County and Municipal Workers of America with the United Federal Workers of America), and the United Office and Professional Workers of America.

Some of these organizations are good, straight American labor unions; some are Communist-dominated. Some of them are protective organizations of their members; some are engaged in a political conspiracy for control of the government in America. Only a congressional investigation can get the facts straight, because without the power of subpoena, it is impossible to establish the truth.

Just a Minute

By Jack Tarver

From Postal To St. Louis Cards

Bob Hannegan has resigned as postmaster general to take over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Next year, one supposes, there will be a sign over the home team's bullpen in Sportsman's Park, . . . "Neither Rain, Nor Snow, Nor Brooklyn Batters . . ."

The former postmaster general has a reputation as an adroit trader in political circles. Yet to be determined is his ability to swap a wornout pitcher and a shortstop who can't go to his left for a fence-busting center-fielder.

Yes sir, it'll seem sort of strange at first, evaluating a man's worth by his batting average rather than his stump appeal.

And wait until the politically-inclined Mr. Hannegan comes charging out of the dugout with an idea of glad-handing the umpire.

Of course, in some respects it'll be easier to manager a ball club For one thing, you don't have to finish first to have a job for the next four years.

Still, baseball is a lot different from politics. You don't see nearly as many switch hitters in the former.

Luckman vs. Barleycorn

By Raymond Moley

BROOMHALL'S "Corn Trade News," regarded as a leading international trade paper, reports that 10,000 tons of American corn which arrived in Romania in a somewhat damaged condition have been used in the production of spirits. This is likely to ruffle tempers here, not only among anti-Russians but among consistent prohibitionists.

Any one, however, who is willing to look the facts of distilling and of grain squarely in the face will see that these tons of grain in Romania, if properly distilled, may have fulfilled a genuine function in the production of food.

MOLEY

Political considerations, undoubtedly induced by the unremitting pressure of drys, placed distilling on the sacrificial block of the Luckman conservation program. There were protests, of course, but the distillers nevertheless were pressured to shut down for two months. We are now in the second of those months and, despite the emotions involved, it will be well to evaluate this well-advertised Luckman reform.

In the first place, the drys, who wanted the shutdown of distilleries can claim no reduction of drinking among Americans. Supplies were adequate for the trade, and increased imports of liquor were immediate. Thus, an American industry was penalized in favor of a foreign industry.

Probable Price Stimulant

The shutdown did not appreciably increase the grain available for food or for export. The fact that some kind of action, like most governmental actions, was well publicized in advance, impelled grain processors to buy grain for storage in competition with the government's purchase for export. This surely helped to increase prices.

The shutdown reduced the collectable taxes derived at the source from the distilling industry and cut the total receipts of federal, state and local governments.

And it applied a discriminatory and inequitable penalty to all those who were put out of work as a result of the shutdown.

By-Products Valuable

The truth about the use of grain in distilling is not well known in this country. The fact is that the animal-feed value of the by-products of distilling is the equivalent of the grain used. Through enrichment with yeast, the protein content of corn is almost completely given back to animals, with a bonus of Vitamin A. Moreover, the process of distilling produces a wide and valuable variety of feed ingredients. Distillers do not use wheat, which is the main item needed for export. But because the shutdown reduced animal feed, more wheat will be consumed by said animals.

Another by-product is corn oil. Oils and fats are scarcer in the world market than grain.

Finally, the by-products of distilling are used in processing penicillin, other pharmaceuticals and yeast.

Saving Small, Loss Great

Thus, the real saving from the eight or ten million or more bushels of grain not used during the shutdown is negligible or nothing. And the resultant dislocation of the feed markets concerned is a total loss.

It is necessary to add, considering the heated letters that come in from drys when facts like those recited above are presented, that that is not an argument on the ethics of drinking or the dangers in alcoholism. These facts simply show that this shutdown neither promotes temperance nor helps to feed Europe.

"Please Keep It Out"

By Frank Tripp

IT would be interesting if some time a newspaper put out an unedited issue composed entirely of the things it is asked to print. No, it wouldn't be interesting—it would be appalling.

Some people expect queer things of a newspaper. There are those who want to get boosts in and those who want to keep blasts out. And there are the persistent space-grabbers, insistent that their offerings be printed exactly as they write them.

The lady who said that she never can get notices of her society in the paper turns out to be complaining that she didn't get a half column of involved rhetoric printed just to announce a change in the meeting date.

TRIPP

The laborite who got the paper boycotted for discrimination turns out to be peeved because a full column of libel about employers was carved to a paragraph in Letters to the Editor.

The industrialist who bellyached that industry's side never gets told is the man who is always "in conference" when sought for an interview and sends out a note, "no comment."

And so it goes, year in and year out, while editors serenely pursue their task to produce news, balance and variety for the greatest number—an incessant battle with word-wasters, space-raiders, propagandists and pressure groups.

The most misguided, yet often well-meaning, class with which the newspaper must contend are the "keep it out" folks.

Sometimes they have reason and justice on their side. Where the innocent would cruelly suffer for deeds of the guilty, newspapers do not wish to add to the anguish. Many such stories die in the overset or are planned to protect those who would pay greater penalty than could be meted the offender.

But suppression of facts often harms more people than publication could. This is almost always true where identification of an offender is withheld but other facts become known. This frequently puts many innocent people under suspicion. The fairest and best way most always is to tell it all.

* * *

Yet this cannot always be done. Several examples come to mind, some that would tug your heartstrings, but let's take this one:

Over a period of months, small thefts had taken place in an establishment where many young women work. A local scandal sheet told the story, without names. There was no arrest. The girl was given another chance.

At about the same time another girl is in the same office eloped in a love affair which set tongues wagging. Within two weeks the company had reason to make changes in personnel and a half dozen girls were let out. There was no connection between the dismissals. The girl who had stolen was not dismissed. She was paying back the money.

* * *

Gossip and accusations spread through the place and seven innocent young women were on the scandal spot. Such goings on are not newsworthy to accredited newspapers—but:

One day three girls came in to see me. They wanted it printed that they and four others were not the thief who was caught at X plant.

"Well, who was?" I asked.

"We don't know," they said; then revealed how the six girls dismissed and the one who eloped were being persecuted by gossip which had reached nasty proportions.

"But if we just say that you girls are lily white and don't say who isn't, can't you see that we would only add to the number of innocent people under suspicion?" I told them.

* * *

They left, unhappy and mad. A few days later the mothers of two other girls called with fire in their eye. X plant gossip had their daughters in the dog house. Then the editor began to get letters he couldn't print—and honeys. The paper was passing through what is no uncommon experience—that of being damned if it does and damned if it doesn't.

Here was a case where people wanted gossip suppressed; which could be done by nothing but facts. Facts which would ruin the life of a repentant girl. Facts which unprinted put seven others' reputations in jeopardy. All because only a part of a story had been told.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

The Twitchells Are Still At It

"Well, the doctors says it is okay for me to tackle the mystery of Who is Miss Hush and win that $25,000 jackpot," said Elmer Twitchell, his eyes still bloodshot. "Let's start in over with the verse of 'Second for Santa, ... for me, seven for wreath, thirteen for tree; Bring me an auto, a book and a ball and I'll say Merry Christmas in spring, not in fall'."

"So where are we?" demanded the wife.

"Back on our own goal line, third down and the wind against us," snapped Elmer. Seven for wreath, thirteen for tree, twenty-one for Army. Hold 'em Yale!

* * *

"What great dancer do we know who is sung and reminds us of a wreath or a tree, if we add thirteen and subtract seven at ten per cent in the spring but not in the fall?" asked Mrs. Twitchell, trying a sneak quarterback play.

"Skip it and let's dope out that line 'Bring me an auto, a book and a ball'," insisted Elmer. "Somehow this auto cue seems cropping up in Miss Hush's life all the time."

"Could it be Kate Smith? She's single," put in the wife. "There was an auto years ago named Moon, and it came over the mountains when necessary. But what is second to Santa and fir with Kate?"

"An adequate girdle," suggested Elmer. "Who cares? Kate Smith is not a dancer."

"If we decide she is Miss Hush she had better start taking lessons," declared Mrs. Twitchell.

* * *

"Give me an auto, a book and a ball," repeated Elmer. "Maybe a phone book. Wasn't there a classic dancer named Belle something or was it Dialtone Duncan?"

"Phone book?" mused the wife. "That suggests a phone booth. Know any dancer named Booth? Perhaps a cook book is the tipoff. Maybe Miss Hush is somebody named Add-Two-Whites-Of-Two-Eggs... Am I losing my mind?"

"Who ain't" barked Elmer. "Maybe it's a novel like Forever Amber.... There are thirteen letters more or less in that title, but what of it?... She wants a ball.....What kind of a ball?.....How about a bowling ball?.....What is suggested by a bowling ball?.....An alley!"

"That does it. Allen's Alley. Miss Hush is Portland," screamed Mrs. Twitchell.

* * *

"Portland is married. If she ain't then Fred is laboring under a great misapprehension," said Elmer. "How about a pool ball? Wasn't there a dancer once named Kelly?.....Get it?.....Kelly pool?"

"Highball!" exclaimed Mrs. Twitchell. "Bring me an auto, a book and a highball....Why seltzer."

"I knew a girl named Seltzer once but she couldn't dance and she was married four times," said Elmer sadly... How about Fishball?... Wasn't there a classic dancer called Meatball once?"

* * *

Elmer took some more aspirin, put another cold rag around his forehead and suddenly shouted, "In the spring, but not in fall!"

"Who?" asked Mrs. Twitchell.

"How should I know. Anyhow there was a horn on the play. We were both offside."

"Aw, let's start once more, consolidate our gains and tackle the whole thing again as if nothing had happened."

"Whadday mean by 'as if'?" demanded Elmer.

Cotton Corners

By Truman Twill

Dear Nephew: I have a plan to save the world. Don't run away. It's not going to cost you a red cent.

First off, I'll admit my plan isn't worth a whoop, which is more than most people with plans to save the world ever will admit. It won't work because people won't give it a chance which was the trouble with the Holy Alliance, the League of Nations and the United Nations. It's also the trouble with all organized religions and ideologies—people won't give them a chance. What we need isn't better plans but better human beings. That's where your Uncle George stands ready to deliver salvation.

My plan calls for the improvement of human beings. It is the essence of simplicity. Anyone who can count can make it work (forgive me if I tell a few lies as I go along). But it really does depend heavily on arithmetic. This is why:

Every person wanting to take advantage of my plan would pledge himself to cut down his standing prejudices to a total of 10. Whenever he developed a new prejudice, he'd either have to drop an old one to make room for the new one, or give up the new one because there was no room for it.

For example, I am prejudiced against rich people because in my childhood I was told that poor people were the salt of the earth and rich people were responsible for all the misery that poor people had to endure. That's a common prejudice among poor people and not a particularly bad one to keep in stock. I, for one, don't intend to give it up until a better one comes along. But if one did come along and I wanted to add it to my list, I'd have to make room for it. See?

Maybe the new prejudice would be against people who jump at conclusions about other people—conclusions based, let us say, on whether the other people are rich or poor. In that case, I couldn't very well stay prejudiced against rich people and at the same time be prejudiced against people guilty of showing that kind of prejudice. See what I'm driving at? My plan would keep human beings from multiplying prejudices willy-nilly. By confining them to a total of 10 prejudices, the plan would make them more selective in their prejudices. They'd have to play off one against another, and in the course of time would get rid of a lot of prejudices that never made sense anyway.

Just about everything people think and do has its origin in prejudices, and these prejudices don't seem to have their origin in anything but hearsay and ignorance. I am not advocating getting rid of prejudices. That would be silly. But why not hold the list down to the biggest, fattest, strongest prejudices you can find, instead of taking aboard as many as happen to come to your attention? The flaw in it is, as I said before, that human beings don't want to get rid of their prejudices and when you talk about improvements they'll tell you to be happy just the way they are. But I've got a good plan, haven't I? Give my regards to the family.

REPLACE STEEPLE CROSS

BUCYRUS, Dec. 6—The 11-foot gold cross which has dominated the city's skyline from atop Good Hope Lutheran church steeple for 55 years, this week was replaced by a cross of stainless steel. Steeple jacks repairing the steeple last week found the old cross, made of zinc and gold leafed, beyond repair and unsafe, and church officials authorized the replacement. Concluding two days of maneuvering the 90 pound 11 by 7 foot cross was hoisted to its new position atop the spire Thursday afternoon. The cross was placed by steeplejacks working in sleet and rain.

BOGUS BILLS

Kanakas. He was arrested shortly before Thanksgiving with $200 in spurious $20 bills in his wallet.

The next man arrested was Arelos, who runs a coffee shop and who allegedly printed counterfeits in a vacant store next door. He was seized delivering $2,000 worth of the bills to an agent. Another $30,000 in fake money was found hidden in his home.

Brennan the Expert

Then Brennan was seized. Authorities said he was a key figure, because it was he who made the plates, working at D'Agostino's small out-of-the-way farm near Schneider, Ind.

Authorities said Brennan admitted that the ring turned out $30,000 worth of five-dollar bills, $200,000 in twenties, and $400,000 in tens.

Klikas was arrested next. In his home, secret service men found $30,000 in counterfeits carefully hidden in a niche near the skylight of an upstairs bedroom.

D'Agostino then was arrested and admitted, agents said, that he printed $200,000 in twenties in his basement. He said that the tens were printed in the vacant store next to Arelos' coffee shop, and the fives were run off at the Schneider, Ind., farm.

The secret service said the ring sold the fives for $10 per $100 worth. The tens and twenties, they said, were sold for $300 per $1000 worth.

Rule Set on Opening Of Sealed Caskets

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6 — Hermetically sealed caskets of returned war dead may not be opened except on court order under a regulation adopted today by the state public health council.

The council held a special meeting and hearing to consider permanent adoption of the regulation proclaimed in October by Gov. Thomas J. Herbert as an emergency measure. There was no opposition to today's regulation.

The new sanitary code regulation said:

"The opening of hermetically sealed caskets containing the disinterred remains of persons dead from any cause, and transported into this state for burial, is hereby forbidden except when so ordered by a court of competent jurisdiction."

State Health Director John D. Porterfield asked the ruling on grounds that opening a casket might expose persons near it to any communicable disease the deceased may have had at time of death.

Firehouse May Be New City Hall at Bucyrus

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS—A special building committee of four city councilmen and Mayor R. L. Hertzer, Safety Director John Carroll and Service Director W. F. Pfleiderer is considering architects' estimates looking toward the possible conversion of the Bucyrus fire department building into a city hall.

O. H. Matthews of the Vernon Redding Co. of Mansfield conferred with the committee Monday, and Tuesday Thomas Rayburn, Marion architect, was in the city conferring with the special committee.

The Mansfield association set up a 6 per cent estimate for preparing preliminary drawings, working plans and for supervision during construction. The Marion architect is to meet again with the committee as a whole to present his estimates.

FINED $50 IN COURT

Maurice W. Reeder, 47, a resident of the Twin Oaks trailer cmp, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court today after pleading guilty to the charge of being in physical control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated. He was arrested by police while sitting in the car on West Center street at 1:15 a. m. today.

FINED ON SPEEDING CHARGE

Keith A. Obenour, 18, of 482 North Greenwood street was fined $15 and costs in municipal court today after he pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding on Mt. Vernon avenue. He was arrested by police and accused of driving 65 miles an hour while eastbound at 10:19 last night.

DUROCHER

Durocher, Rickey and Harold Parrott, the Dodgers' road secretary.

Basis of Charges

MacPhail's charges involved newspaper stories quoting Rickey and a daily column under Durocher's name in the Brooklyn Eagle in which it had been inferred that the ex-Yankee president had entertained known gamblers in his box at a Havana exhibition game.

Rickey was quoted as saying "apparently there are rules for Durocher and other rules for the rest of baseball" in reference to a California conference between Chandler and Durocher last winter in which Leo was told to avoid certain associates "or else."

Then suddenly in a completely unexpected move, Chandler suspended Durocher for the entire season five days before the opener. MacPhail and the Yankees were fined $2,000, the Brooklyn club was fined $2,000 and Parrott was fined $500.

Stunning Decision

Stunned by the decision, made public while Durocher and his coaches were making final decisions on players at the end of spring training, Rickey labored several days before coming up with a manager.

A call to Buffalo to Joe McCarthy failed to lure the former Yankee manager, who since has signed with Boston, to return to the game on a one-year basis.

Finally April 18, after the club had won its first two games under Coach Clyde Sukeforth as acting manager, Rickey summoned the 63-year-old Shotton from his Bartow, Fla., home. Managing from the bench in street clothes and usually wearing a brown felt hat, the bespectacled veteran did an excellent job, winning the pennant and carrying the Yankees to a seven-game World Series before losing.

The small kitchen, simplicity itself, requires no explanation; and the small bathroom provides all the convenience required. The arrangement of the living room is optional with the owner. The two recessed bunks or built-in beds may be screened or closed off by a light partition. The corner of the living room may likewise be partitioned off, or the bunks may be treated as settees with a corner table between as shown. It should be noted that practically any and all changes or plans may be adopted, and still have both light and ventilation to every area of the small building.

Many of the low-cost house suggestions lack charm or character. The small house shown here presents a wealth of both.

This plan offers an excellent opportunity for a really low-cost house which can be improved through the years. The original idea was to build the four walls and roof, then to add the kitchen and bathroom fixtures, which are back-to-back for economy; then to build the fire-place, and later to finish the interior walls and erect the partitions if they are wanted.

FIRST AID TO AILING HOUSE

—By ROGER C. WHITMAN—

Door "Binding" at Top

Q. Our second-floor bathroom door is binding at the top more and more each month. Could this be due to the sinking of the house? All the other doors and windows are OK, and the plaster has not cracked as yet. How does one go about finding out if a house is sinking, other than employing a specialist in that line?

A. I believe that the door sticks from the absorption of moisture from the damp air of the bathroom. When your heater is started up, you may find that the wood will shrink again and ease the binding. If not, try planing the top of the door a trifle. Then paint the edge with enamel or varnish to prevent further absorption of moisture. If the plaster has not cracked and everything else is all right, I see no cause for alarm. When a house settles, the cracking of plaster is usually one of the first indications. If you feel anxious, why not let an unprejudiced building contractor come in and make an examination?

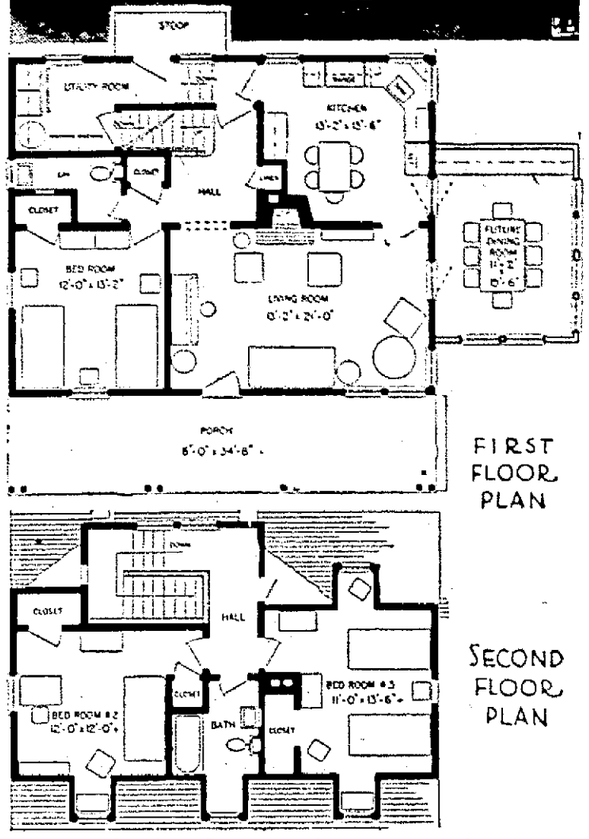
HOMES FOR AMERICANS



By The Associated Press

A small farmhouse that can grow, designed in traditional Colonial farmhouse style by agricultural engineers, architects and home economists of the U. S. department of agriculture. Working drawings are distributed through the county agricultural agents, free in some states and for a nominal charge for printing in others. This is Exchange Plan No. 7017. If your county agent does not have it, write to the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Division of Farm Buildings and Rural Housing, Beltville, Md., to learn the name of the nearest state handling this plan. It is one of a series of six.

The basic unit of this house covers an area of 980 square feet without dining room or porch. This may be used as a guide for local cost estimates. From this core the house can be expanded by the addition of the dining room, 11'2"x15'6", and the finishing of two added bedrooms and extra bath upstairs. This layout is suitable with or without a basement, the utility room accommodating heating plant in minimum construction.

Layout is well-planned with all rooms and downstairs lavatory accessible from rear entrance hall without passage through work or living area. The large kitchen provides dining space. Although shown in wood frame construction, this house can be built of masonry or other materials, for which plans are adaptable.

Inspection Conducted By D. of A. Council

Annual inspection of Mary A. Canfield Council No. 210, Daughters of America, was conducted by Mrs. Essie Thompson, district deputy, at a meeting of the council Thursday night in the Democratic hall. One candidate for membership was initiated and one member was reinstated. Officers for the new year were elected and will be installed Jan. 1.

Arrangements were made for the district past councilors annual Christmas party to be held here Saturday afternoon in the Democratic hall with Mary A. Canfield as the hostess group. Plans were also made for the council Christmas party at the next meeting, Dec. 18, at which time the quarterly birthday supper and a gift exchange will be held. Visitors were present for the meeting from Paramount Council, Daughters of America.

AUTO HITS TRAIN AS BRAKES FAIL

Driver Escape Injury; Two Other Accidents Reported.

Failure of brakes to hold caused an auto driven by Charles E. Freeman of 531 Milburn street to collide with an Erie freight train at 10:45 last night, Freeman told police. The car was going north on North Main street while the train was westbound. The auto struck the third car behind the engine. The engineer was Tom Noblett. The front end of the automobile was damaged.

A car owned by Richard Marshall of 193 Bellefontaine avenue was struck by a truck while parked in front of his home last night, police reported. The truck was unidentified but observers who saw the truck said the driver backed his truck and continued west on Bellefontaine. Red marks were left on the auto which was parked on the south side of the street.

A minor accident occurred at Main and Center streets at 11:50 last night between an auto driven by Samuel Babich of 483½ North Prospect street and another driven by David D. Watkins of near Radnor. Watkins was making a left turn from West Center to North Main street, while Babich was going west on Center. afford to shut down because "production lines would become hopelessly clogged."

500 Million Dollar Plant

The $500,000,000 Carbide and Carbon plant threatened by strike occupies a 600-acre section of the 90-square-mile Oak Ridge reservation.

It is considered vital in the production of both atomic bomb material and radioactive isotopes for experiments now being carried out to find peacetime uses for atomic energy. Company officials would not reveal details of the process for "security reasons."

In Washington, Chairman Bourke B. Hickenlooper of the congressional atomic energy commission said he thought "means are available" for stopping the scheduled strike.

He avoided answering a question as to whether troops would be called in but said "the continuity of work is certainly a matter of security in the atomic project."

TRUMAN WARNS U.S. TO GUARD RESOURCES

By The Associated Press

EVERGLADES CITY, Fla., Dec. 6—President Truman called today for constant vigilance in developing the nation's resources to prevent "raids" by "destructive influences" bent on exploiting "our common heritage for their private gain."

Speaking in this tiny city deep in the Everglades with federal and state officials, tourists and Seminole Indians in his audience, the President linked the public's responsibility for conservation with its responsibility for "world order, world peace and world recovery."

Mr. Truman interrupted a five-day vacation at Key West to make the major address at ceremonies in which Gov. Millard F. Caldwell of Florida handed over title to 454,000 acres of the Florida Everglades to Interior Secretary Krug for establishment of America's 28th national park. Krug introduced the President. Senators Pepper and Holland of Florida shared the speakers' stand.

Jury Spares Life Of Husky Cleveland Slayer

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6—A jury of eight women and four men spared the life of big Christian M. Van Dalen, 29, last night and convicted him of second-degree murder in the brutal sex-slaying last Aug. 9 of Miss Mildred McKelvey, 31.

The jury deliberated seven hours before reporting, and Foreman John H. Haas Jr., said the jurists never once considered counts of murder in rape or in attempted rape or first-degree murder against the six-foot-four-inch, 260-pound defendant.

Common Pleas Judge Arthur H. Day sentenced Van Dalen to Ohio penitentiary, but mentioned no length of term. Later he told reporters the second degree verdict carried a life sentence, but the prisoners could be paroled after 10 years. The court thanked jurors for "a fair verdict."

Van Dalen clasped his hands and flushed when Haas' announcement ended the five-day trial in which he claimed to have "blacked out" after accompanying the victim from a west-end saloon in Cleveland's "rowdy row" to Brookside park.

"I want the court to know that I still think I am not guilty," Van Dalen declared.

Rawlins told state highway patrolmen he was enroute to Oak Hill, O., to visit his mother and that he went to sleep.

HUGE AFL POLITICAL FUND DRIVE STARTED

By The United Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6 — The American Federation of Labor set out today to raise the biggest political campaign fund ever sought by a labor organization. AFL President William Green said it would be done entirely within federal and state laws governing political finances.

Green said he is confident that more than $8,000,000 will be contributed voluntarily by AFL members for use in next year's elections to put men in federal, state and local public office who will favor labor's viewpoint.

The representatives of 105 affiliated AFL unions yesterday authorized their newly-established "Labor's Educational and Political league" to endorse nominees for representative, senator and president of the United States if the league's national committee chooses.

Green said the AFL will decide after next summer's party nominating conventions whether to endorse a presidential candidate. This is the first time such authority has ever been granted to a top AFL policy group. The only previous AFL endorsement for president was given Robert M. LaFollette Sr., Progressive party nominee in 1924.

The league will have state, county and municipal branches and will receive at least 50 cents of each $1 contributed.

Green said the voluntary financing method is legal under the Taft-Hartley law, which prohibits the use of union dues for political purposes. Every effort was made, he said, to keep the activities within the bound of federal and state laws.

Green said the primary purpose of the league will be to defeat those congressmen who voted for the Taft-Hartley law.

Thus, through another session the line-up of western leaders in opposition to Molotov was complete.

EUROPE WINTER AID BILL SET TO PASS NEXT WEEK

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6—Congressional leaders today held firm to their plan for sending the European winter aid bill to President Truman by the end of next week despite a determined campaign in the house to scale down the administration's $597,000,000 request.

A severe cut might threaten delay while a compromise is reached between the senate and house versions. The senate has approved the whole $597,000,000.

House members who contend that France, Italy and Austria can be tided over the cold months for millions less than Mr. Truman asked prepared to fight the issue out on the floor Monday with a series of proposed amendments to the bill.

Plane Pilot Accused Of Reckless Operation

Roy Mash Jr., 20, of near Marion pleaded not guilty in municipal court today to the charge of reckless operation of an airplane. He was arrested Nov. 29 by the state highway patrol and accused of flying too low over Marion county and also engaging in acrobatic flying. This is the first case of reckless flying of an airplane on record in the Marion courts. He will have a hearing Dec. 9. He is under a $50 bond.

Senator Denies Ohio School Was Subversive

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6 — "The Ohio School of Social Science was fully steeped in the best of our democratic traditions and was neither totalitarian, Fascist, Communist or subversive," a state senator said today.

This defense of a now-defunct Cleveland school—listed as "subversive" by U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark—was contained in a letter written by Senator Howard M. Metzenbaum (D-Cuyahoga) to Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert.

Herbert learned Metzenbaum was a board member of the school and asked him for an explanation, in view of the attorney general's "subversive" label.

Metzenbaum wrote in reply:

"The attorney general of the United States apparently was misinformed in listing this school as one of those which were * * * 'subversive or communistic.' * * *

"The school itself has not been operating for one and a half to two years, but when it did, it was run by a board of directors."

DEBATE CONTINUES ON BAN OF CAROLS

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Superintendent of Schools William Jansen advised school officials yesterday to hold Christmas programs suitable to the participants as debate continued over the banning of carols of a strong religious note in 23 Brooklyn schools.

In a circular sent to the city's schools, Jansen said "the principle of freedom of religion will be respected.

The carols were forbidden Thursday by Isaac Bildersee, assistant superintendent, who at the same time banned Jewish Hanukkah holiday symbols from his district, which contains many Jewish children.

The banishing of the carols was described as "distressing" by the Right Rev. Charles K. Gilbert, Episcopal bishop of New York. Calling it a "difficult" question, Dr. Gilbert said "it is too bad it had to be raised. Naturally, freedom of religion should be observed."

Various organizations issued statements condemning and upholding Bildersee. Opposing his stand were the National Conference of Christian and Jews, Catholic War Veterans of New York, National Apostleship of Prayer, and the Brooklyn Protestant Council of New York.

Upholding him were the United Parents associations, American Jewish Congress, American Civil Liberties Union, the Teachers Guild of the American Federation of Labor and the Free Thinkers of America.

JOIN the LEGION

AN APPEAL TO VETERANS FOR GOOD NEIGHBOR DAY

Letter To Veterans—

Like most of us who served honorably in the armed forces, you probably value highly your service record and discharge button. And like most veterans, you have settled into civilian life, with your old uniform firmly tucked away in a trunk. And maybe—like a lot of veterans—life for you has become something of a ratrace in which the main ingredients are work, eat, sleep, radio, movies, etc.

Thousands of veterans, however, have regained something of that spirit of comradeship and working together which won the war by becoming active members of the American Legion. They have thereby found new friends and located old friends, and discovered very practical and enjoyable ways of solving mutual problems and becoming a part of community affairs. Life is no longer a ratrace for them.

Veterans who are not "joiners" discovered that organizations such as the American Legion are doing for them things which simply would not have been done if nobody had demanded them. For instance:

The Legion conceived, drafted and piloted the GI Bill of Rights through Congress, and later got it amended several times. It backed terminal leave pay for enlisted men, and then got payment of the leave bonds in cash. It also fought successfully for the 20 percent increase in disability pensions for veterans, and for liberalized GI insurance and educational benefits for disabled veterans. We are working for national security, a more vigorous Americanism, and other goals which I know you, too, strongly favor.

In Ohio the Legion spearheaded the successful campaign for a bonus for World War II Veterans.

Service to veterans, their dependents and survivors is our first interest. The Ohio Legion has more than 700 voluntary post service officers, and employs 18 persons full time to prepare the present claims of veterans before the Veterans Administration. In one year the efforts of our main service offices returned $6,620,240, in cash benefits to Ohio veterans.

Members of every post carry on various community service and Americanism projects. In 1947 Ohio had more than 300 junior baseball teams playing. At Buckeye Boy's State, where high school juniors learn practical government by working at it, we had 812 boys enrolled. Thousands of children entered our state essay contest. Posts backed 150 Boy Scout troops. We had state-wide basketball, bowling, softball and baseball tourneys for our members.

This post is embarking on another year of activity, and naturally we would like to have as large a membership as possible to enable us to accomplish the many projects, planned. I feel that every local veteran owes it to himself and family and the future of his community to identify himself with the American Legion. You are cordially invited to come out and meet your comrades in this post, look over our year's program and assets, and decide for yourself.

Sincerely,

Marion County Council of the American Legion

Make Pearl Harbor Day the Legion's Good Neighbor Day, O'Neil Urges

INDIANAPOLIS, IND., (ALPA)—The American Legion is planning to make Pearl Harbor Day this year a Good Neighbor Day by putting the strong American handclasp into the observance of this historic anniversary in every community in the United States.

National Commander James F. O'Neil has asked every one of the 3,300,000 members of The American Legion to demonstrate his good will by visiting his neighbors on Dec. 7 not only to strengthen the bonds of national unity but also the membership ranks of the 16,621 Posts.

In a front page appeal in the November, 1947, issue of The National Legionnaire, Commander O'Neil invited every member of The American Legion to send him his written pledge of participation in the Good Neighbor Day individual membership campaign on Dec. 7. The blank pledge was printed below the Commander's request.

The national commander urged particularly that Legionnaires search out unaffiliated veterans in their communities to make their acquaintance and to extend them the warmest invitations to join The American Legion. A membership application was printed in The National Legionnaire for the convenience of all members participating in the Good Neighbor Day program. The commander further requested that Legionnaires invite the eligible veterans to be their personal guests at the next meeting of their post.

James F. O'Neil, National Commander

Quarreling between the two men becomes even greater with the arrival of Abby Hale, an English bond slave, played by Paulette Goddard, sentenced by the English courts to 14 years of slavery in America in the service of whoever buys her at public auction. Possession of Abby, and her affections, plus the uprising of the Indians is the work which faces Holden.

Heading the outstanding supporting cast are Howard Da Silva, Boris Karloff and Cecil Kellaway.

Wednesday only, on the stage for four performances will be the Musical Majorettes of Cleveland. Sixteen of the 32 Majorettes will appear here under the leadership of their director, George "Red" Bird, organizer of the all-girl group.

"Escape Me Never" On Bill at Ohio

"Escape Me Never," a romantic drama adapted from Margaret Kennedy's best-seller and play, stars Errol Flynn and Ida Lupino, with Eleanor Parker and Gig Young.

The story, which takes place in Venice in the spring and London in the fall, is of Gemma, played by Ida Lupino, hungry and worried over her family, who disguises herself as a touring student girl and invades a summer castle of visiting English folk to get food. She comes in contact with Fenella (Eleanor Parker) wealthy English girl, whose parents have rented the castle. Fenella is in love with Caryl (Gig Young) a penniless musician, but has a quarrel with him and leaves suddenly.

Gemma and Caryl's brother, Sebastian (Errol Flynn) set out to catch up with Fenella and untangle the misunderstanding. They earn their way singing in wayside cafes. Gemma finally reaches Fenella, but quarrels with her when she discovers that Fenella has turned to Sebastian. Later, the big night arrives in London for Sebastian's ballet to be performed, troubles arise but are soon cleared up.

"How Green Was My Valley," acclaimed as one of the greatest pictures ever made, will open Friday to run for four days in a return engagement. Based on Richard Llewellyn's best seller, the film won six Academy Awards, one for the best production of its year.

Walter Pidgeon, Maureen O'Hara, Donald Crisp, Roddy McDowall and Barry Fitzgerald are the starring players.

The story, which is unfolded as seen through the eyes of a boy, played by Roddy McDowall, tells of the joys and sorrows, trials and loves of a Welsh family in a small mining village.

IDA LUPINO AND ERROL FLYNN, above, are the starring players in "Escape Me Never," a filmization of Margaret Kennedy's best seller, which is now playing through Thursday at the Ohio theater.

HARDING LOSES BASKETBALL OPENER TO BEXLEY, 37-35

Bobcats Overtake Prexies In 16-Point Last Quarter Rally

By STAN GAREY

The Harding Presidents lost their first game of the 1947-48 basketball season in a hotly contested exhibition with the Bexley Bobcats, 37-35, last night on Edison Junior High's court.

The Prexies led in the first three quarters and in the fourth they were unable to match the 16 points tallied by the Bobcats. Coach Somerlot's boys played a good game even though it was a heartbreaking loss.

Dick Riddle was high scorer for Harding with 14 points while Erving Meyers accounted for the same number for Bexley. Hardly a minute went by without a thrill as both teams showed plenty of fight and spirit.

In the first quarter neither team seemed able to gain headway. Harding's defense was good but the offense could not break through. The Bobcats seemed unable to find the basket during the early stages of the game and the first quarter ended in favor of Harding 12 to 11.

The second quarter remained nearly even in scoring, but the Prexies picked up two points on the Bobcats to gain a half-time 20-17 lead.

Scoring slacked off in the third frame with the Presidents netting but six points to the Bobcats' four.

Trailing Harding 26 to 21 at the start of the final period the Bobcats came back and netted 16 points to Hadring's nine in a rally sparked by Bexley's Fred Nagle, who tied up the score with a basket and put Bexley ahead with a free throw.

Even though the Harding Presidents lost a close battle they showed a lot of promise for victories during the season.

The Harding reserves won their game from the Bexley reserves, 32-26.

Dick Leffler was the top scorer with 10 points and Bill Buckingham was second with nine points.

Snatches of Sports

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—They tell a story on Francis Albertanti, the fight publicist, about a time he was betting heavily on Gene Tunney to whip Jack Dempsey in their second encounter . . . Afterward someone asked how he felt when Dempsey had Tunney down for the famous long count . . . "I was on my feet," replied Francis, "yelling like everything for Dempsey." . . . That's the way a lot of people felt about the Joe Louis-Jersey Joe Walcott fight last night . . . They hated the idea of a great champion like Louis losing to a 10-1 underdog, especially a guy with an ordinary reputation like Walcott's . . . But then Jersey Joe floored the champ with a rock crusher right and when he danced and sidestepped and ducked to avoid the ever present menace of Louis' fists, they were yelling like the dickens for Jersey Joe to stay on his feet and stay out of trouble.

FROM THE MORE DISTANT $30 pews, where the customers couldn't see the damage to Louis' face, the fight looked like a dull affair—the kind that would cause the fans to boo a couple of preliminary bums out of the ring . . . Walcott was the retreating counter-puncher throughout; Louis the pursuer who apparently couldn't make up his mind what to do next when his jabs failed to find their mark . . . Most of the spectators didn't know it, but they could have seen the scrap enacted, almost blow for blow, on Jacobs Beach any day last week with Dumb Dan Morgan playing the roles of both fighters . . . Remember Dan's predictions: "Louis can't jab this fellow and Walcott will give him trouble?"

Joe Louis Wins Contested Decision Over Walcott

Retains Heavyweight Championship In 15-Round Bout; Fans Cheer Challenger

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Dec. 6—Joe Louis held his world heavyweight championship today by means of a split, hotly contested decision over Jersey Joe Walcott on whose behalf a claim was staked to the title.

Louis' hand was raised amid boos after 15 rounds, and Walcott was cheered by a crowd of 18,194 that paid $216,477 in Madison Square Garden last night, a record gate.

Twice the champion was knocked down, once for the count of seven.

The 33-year-old Louis, 10 years a champion, rarely managed to catch up with Walcott, his equal in age but so lightly held before the fight that the odds were one to 10 in Louis' favor. It was even money that Walcott would not come out for the fifth. Louis outweighed the challenger, 211 pounds to 194½.

Walcott back, then punched, side-stepped, then swung, to the bewilderment of the Brown Bomber whose blows seemed to have lost the lethal force that resulted in 21 previous knockouts as champion. But Louis always kept coming on, even with his left eye almost shut and blood seeping from his nose.

Judge Frank Forbes voted eight rounds for Louis, six for Walcott, and one even. Referee Ruby Goldstein favored Walcott, seven rounds to six, with two even. Judge Marty Monroe tipped the balance in the champion's favor, nine rounds to six.

Asks Public Hearing

In the turmoil that followed Louis' 24th successful defense of his championship, Walcott's manager, Joe Webster, declared he had told chairman Eddie Eagan of the New York State Athletic commission that he claimed the title for Walcott, wanted a public hearing, and based his protest on "your own point scoring system."

Eagan said he had not called a special meeting of the commission.

"I merely told Webster that he could see me Monday at 11 a. m. and that if the matter was worthy, the entire commission would consider it at our regular meeting on Friday," said Eagan.

The official score cards showed 37 points for Walcott and 32 for Louis. Up to four points can be won in a round depending on how decisively the scorer favors one contestant. However, decisions are not based on aggregate points.

"Bad Fight," says Louis

With typical candor Louis said afterwards, "I won, but I was disgusted with myself. It was a bad fight. I always said I wasn't the man I was before."

Louis damaged his good right hand. He thought this happened in the fifth round. An X-ray after midnight showed no broken bones, said his manager, John Rosborough. "However, it was badly bruised."

Immediately talk started of a return match between the two Negroes, and Webster spoke in terms of a "million dollar gate outdoors in June."

The crowd was brought to its feet in the first round when Walcott landed a hard right and Joe half-slipped, half-fell to his knees for the count of two.

In the fourth, Walcott's right brought down the champion, and no mistake about it. His left eye already puffing, Louis rested on one knee up to the count of seven.

Near the end the roar became deafening. When the bell rang to close the 15th round, Louis walked rapidly to the ropes and was half way out of the ring before his trainers pulled him back. He explained afterwards that this was because of his disgust with himself.

Never since Max Schmeling knocked out Louis in 1936, before Joe won the title, had the champion been knocked down twice. Some managed to do it once, but only to enrage him.

John Carmichael, sports editor of the Chicago Daily News, voted 11 to 4 in favor of Walcott. Ted Meier, of The Associated Press had Walcott on top, 11-3-1.

VILLANOVA FAVORED TO BEAT KENTUCKY

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Dec. 6—Villanova rated a one-touchdown favorite over an injury-riddled Kentucky squad today in the first annual Great Lakes Bowl game.

Kentucky, which compiled a record of seven wins and three losses during the regular campaign, was handicapped by injuries to halfbacks Jack Farris and Don Phelps and right end Wallace Jones.

Villanova was without the services of George Pavalko, husky guard who suffered a rib fracture in the San Francisco game last Sunday. It won six, lost two and tied one during the regular campaign.

Both clubs depend mainly upon strong running attacks and the game was expected to develop into a battle of lines.

Officials of the Knights of Columbus, the sponsoring organization, anticipated a crowd of more than 20,000.

15,000 EXPECTED AT TOLEDO GLASS BOWL

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 6—The unbeaten New Hampshire Wildcats and the University of Toledo Rockets, losers of two in 10, meet in the second annual Glass Bowl game here today with a near sell-out crowd of 15,000 anticipated.

Toledo was a slight favorite to retain the Glass Bowl title it won in last year's inaugural against another New England opponent—Bates college, beaten by the Rockets 21-12.

Both teams were in top condition for the encounter, but rainy, cold weather in the past several days threatened to keep the attendance from reaching capacity.

Gov. Charles M. Dale of New Hampshire and Ohio's Gov. Thomas J. Herbert will be honored guests at the game.

Richwood Defeats Byhalia, 66-19

Richwood swamped Byhalia last night on the loser's hardwood, 66-19, with Taylor contributing 16 points.

Coach Richard Fetter used his entire first string squad and all 10 aided in the piling up the score.

None of the Byhalia players could get more than one field goal as the Richwood crew played a sound defensive game.

Fans Disappointed Over Dull Minor Loop Meet

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 6—Baseball fans, disappointed over the do-nothing attitude that prevailed at the just concluded minor league convention in Miami, were hopeful today that the major league sessions in New York next week will provide more ammunition for the winter hot stove league.

Not a transaction of any major significance was consummated during the three-day gathering here.

A PASSING COMBINATION dreamed of by Mike Golden, 16, of Denver (left), came true Thursday when he took the ball—an autographed one from Johnny Lujack (right), Notre Dame football star, when the Irish gridders stopped in Cheyenne, Wyo., enroute to California for today's game with U. S. C. Mike, an infantile paralysis victim, came to Cheyenne from Denver to meet Lujack. George Connor, Notre Dame captain, is the third person. (Associated Press Wirephoto)

Caledonia, Waldo, Pleasant, LaRue, Meeker Cagers Win

Caledonia, Waldo, Pleasant, LaRue and Meeker won the third round of games in the Marion county league last night. Caledonia swamped Martel, 74 to 14, on the Donia floor; Waldo also used the home floor advantage to eke out a 28 to 25 win over Claridon.

Pleasant won over Prospect 42 to 33 on the losers floor, while LaRue took a close game from New Bloomington 38 to 31 at New Bloomington.

Meeker also went on the road to win whipping Green Camp 52 to 20.

In the game at Caledonia Kenneth Comstock led the 74-point attack of the tall winners with 20 markers. Coach Wright's champions grabbed a 22 to 6 lead in the first quarter and continued to pile up the lead by tallying 41 points in the last half. The Caledonia Junior High team also won over the Martel Juniors 26 to 24.

Charles Mayers was held to his lowest point total in four years of play (four) by Joe Wolfe, Prospect guard. Randy Dickason and Ron Gorby took up the slack however, as they tallied 18 and 14 points respectively. The score at the half was tied at 20 all. The Pleasant reserves swamped the Prospect youngsters 42 to 1. Pleasant will entertain Radnor tonight.

In the game at Green Camp, Meeker kept possession of the ball most of the time while winning 52 to 20 with top scoring honors going to Williams, Brown and Yost. The Green Camp reserves won from the Meeker seconds 25 to 8.

LaRue dominated the play in the first three quarters against New Bloomington and led 37 to 19 at the third quarter stop. New Bloomington came out strong in the final session to score 12 points while holding LaRue to only one point. Brocklesby, LaRue center, led the point makers with 14. Burke Ballinger, LaRue forward injured in football, got into the game and added deceptive ball handling to the LaRue attack. The LaRue reserves won 36 to 16.

SOUTHERN CAL-N.D. GAME SOLD OUT

Expect 103,000 Though Rain Is Forecast.

By The Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 6—Notre Dame's Fighting Irish, seeking their first all-winning season in 17 years and a clear claim to the national grid title, collide head-on with Southern California's Trojans today before a probable season-record crowd of 103,000.

Rain, which fell plentifully as the Irish arrived yesterday, was forecast for the game, but it would take flood waters to keep many enthusiasts away from mammoth Memorial coliseum.

This is the one local football followers have been waiting for since 1942, the last appearance of the Irish here. It was sold out two months ago.

Coach Frank Leahy's machine from South Bend, Ind., was a 13-point favorite over the Trojans, who won the Pacific Coast conference without a loss and were tied only by Rice, 7-7.

Undefeated and untied in eight games, Notre Dame hoped to take the Trojans by (A) one point, which would give the school its first unblemished season since 1930; or (B) 20 or 30 points, which would strengthen the Irishers' place as the top collegiate team of 1947 in most experts' opinion. U.C.S. ranked third nationally in the latest Associated Press poll.

The Trojans meet Michigan, currently ranked No. 2 nationally by the slimmest of margins, in the Rose Bowl. There is little doubt that Notre Dame will be battling to put points on the board for Michigan to shoot at.

OKLAHOMA BEATS OHIO STATE CAGERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 6—The Buckeyes of Ohio State found the going against Oklahoma's sticky-fingered Sooners, defending champions of the Big Six, a bit too tough last night and the surging Oklahomans won, 62-53, going away.

Ohio college fives went ahead in interstate competition for the evening, however, for Cincinnati's rapid cagers took Southern Methodist, 59-46, and Case Tech beat Buffalo, 58-50, for its first cage win since 1945.

The Sooners won the ball game on finesse as much as anything. Ohio State's eager sophomores led for the first few minutes, 4-0. Center Bill Waters of Oklahoma then netted three in a row. The Bucks pulled ahead, 23-19, late in the first half, but the Sooners turned on the power and led at half-time, 30-29.

The victory by Case Tech over the University of Buffalo was Tech's first in 26 starts. Case last won over Carnegie Tech in 1945, then lost eight that year and 16 in a row last year.

Ohio Wesleyan To Join Ohio Conference

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., Dec. 6—Admittance of Ohio Wesleyan and election of officers top the agenda today as athletic officials of the Ohio conference continue their annual meeting.

Postseason games and adoption of full National Collegiate Athletic association standards also are scheduled for discussion.

FITE MEMORIAL CHURCH MISSION SOCIETY MEETS

The Missionary society of Fite Memorial Baptist church was entertained Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Glen Riddle on Fies avenue. Seventeen members responded to roll call with verses of scripture from the book of Luke. Arrangements were made to fill a basket and to buy shoes for a needy family for Christmas. The resignation of Mrs. Nellie Allison as guild leader was accepted and Mrs. Mary Simpkins was elected to fill the vacancy. The society also voted to serve the lunch for a New Year's Eve party at the church.

The program in charge of Mrs. Simpkins was in keeping with Christmas and closed with a candlelight service during which sentence prayers were given by the members. A social hour followed and a gift exchange was held. The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Dorothy Barton. The next meeting will be Jan. 11 with Mrs. Fred Porter on Davids street.
